THE TURNBULL GOVERNMENT DIRECTED THE PRODUCTIVITY COMMISSION TO UNDERTAKE AN INQUIRY INTO INCREASING PRIVATISATION AND FOR- PROFIT PROVISION OF SERVICES UNDER THE GUIDE OF ‘COMPETITION’ AND ‘CONTESTABILITY’ IN HUMAN SERVICES BEFORE THE LAST ELECTION.

In contrast our union, along with other public sector unions, has initiated the People’s Inquiry into Privatisation.

This independent inquiry has collected hundreds of written submissions.

It travelled to capital cities and regional centres around Australia in September and October last year to speak directly with people about the impact of privatisation in their lives.

The stories heard by the people’s panel are powerful, and highlight the detrimental impact of privatisation on service quality, cost, accountability, and accessibility.

The People’s Inquiry is showing that communities are fed up with privatisation, and want services that are run to benefit them – not the privateers.

The Productivity Commission’s Inquiry seems only interested in exploring options that will take control of public services away from our community.

The first stage of the Federal Government’s inquiry concluded in December, with a report that identifies six areas they argue would benefit from privatisation:

1. Social housing
2. Public hospital services
3. End-of-life care
4. Public dental services
5. Human Services in remote indigenous communities
6. Commissioning arrangements for family and community services

The second stage, which will explore options for how further competition and contestability could be implemented in these areas has commenced.

Many submissions to their inquiry (including ours) have detailed the problems with privatisation and running public services for a profit, including pointing to failures in the vocational education, job services, and prison sector.

The Productivity Commission surprisingly dismissed all of this evidence stating: “maximising community welfare from the provision of human services does not depend on adopting one type of model or favouring one type of service provider over others.”

The final report of their inquiry is due in October.

If you work in one of the areas identified for privatisation by the federal government and would like to confidentially assist with information, please contact our National Campaigns Officer.

The People’s Inquiry report will be launched late in February:

THE PAID PARENTAL LEAVE (PPL) SAGA CONTINUES WITH THE SENATE SET TO RELEASE IT’S STANDING COMMITTEE REPORT INTO THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT’S FAIRER PAID PARENTAL LEAVE BILL IN FEBRUARY.

The proposed legislation includes an 18-week cap of paid time at home for parents who receive employer paid leave like Victorian public sector workers which will strip parents of time at home with their newborns.
CPSU made a submission to the inquiry which outlined member concerns and case studies about how this Bill could adversely affect our members.

To add insult, the Federal Government labelled women who utilise both options of paid leave as ‘double-dippers’, ‘rorters’ and ‘frauds’.

CPSU made it clear that these terms were incredibly offensive to our members, and more broadly, to all women who have accessed PPL in the way it was designed to be used.

Paid time at home was established to act as a baseline to be ‘added to’ by Employers, with the aim of meeting the optimal 26 weeks paid leave.

The Federal Government’s scheme paid PPL only at minimum wage rate however, this ‘topping up’ is essential to ease the financial stress of families.

“After having complications post-birth, an extended hospital stay and a long recovery, trying to build my confidence as a new mother brought with it an overwhelming feeling of exhaustion, self-doubt and anxiety,” one CPSU member said.

“The proposed changes to exclude us from the Federal Governments PPL scheme have me and my partner reconsidering whether to have a second child as we simply could not afford to drop to one income if I stay at home beyond the 18 weeks.”

“\textit{I cringe when I hear the term “double dipping” which implies wrongness, unfairness, injustice, and creates a divide between women and society at a crucial time when we need to be supporting one another and advocating for our fundamental right to paid parental leave.}”

Our submission included case studies like these from members about their experience of receiving Government and Employer paid leave and what the restrictions on paid leave would mean for them.

An estimated 70,000 mothers with a median income of $62,000 would be an average of $5,600 worse off.

Another 4,000 new mothers will lose access to the Government scheme completely and be more than $12,000 worse off.

An estimated 47 per cent of new mothers receive paid parental leave, and of these, 15 per cent work in the state public sector according to the Shadow Minister Jenny Macklin MP.

As such, the Federal Government’s Bill will have a significant detrimental impact on our members, the majority of whom are women.

We urge you to get in contact with your local Member of Parliament to get your voice heard on this very important issue.
FALSE ECONOMIES

THERE HAS BEEN A PRACTICE FOR GOVERNMENT TO OUTSOURCE WHAT SHOULD BE THE LEGITIMATE WORK OF THE PUBLIC SERVICE TO CONSULTANTS.

Instead of having people who are intimately aware of the services they deliver designing policy, undertaking the planning, and devising processes, governments pay a fortune to private companies who far too often fall short of their promises.

Across the country and nationally, Australians are now paying the price for the short-sightedness of decimating the public service for ‘budget repair’, political focus on number of employees rather than meeting the demand for quality services, and to avoid being told uncomfortable truths.

Public services have lost an enormous amount of expertise and experience from those in public employment who can no longer feel free to give advice frankly and fearlessly and who do not have the long-term memory of tried and failed policy initiatives.

Advice now comes from tame consultants who produce reports with the required outcome with further consultancy, all for a hefty fee.

Victorian Government Departments are not immune and have failed to wean these capability crushers and resource drainers off the public purse.

DHHS spent more than half its $28 million consultancy spend over the last two financial years at the big four agencies being PWC, EY, KPMG, and Deloitte on research, advice, analysis, planning and reviewing.

In fact the seven main Departments spent more than $70 million last financial year on 650 consultants, almost two consultancies a day.

What disgusts public sector employees today is knowing that despite this Government’s commitment to re-build its in-house capability to avoid the problems from privatisations of the past, last years’ spend on consultants was 20 percent or $10 million higher than the previous year.

The trend is going in the wrong direction.

Now that’s capability crushing.

THE PHENOMENAL PENALTY RATES WIN ACHIEVED FOR 1,700 ARTS INSTITUTIONS EMPLOYEES WAS ONE OF THE HIGHLIGHTS IN 2016.

Following the attacks on entitlements of public sector workers in the 1990s, employees at Museums Victoria, the National Gallery of Victoria, the State Library, and the Australian Centre for the Moving Image (ACMI) were stripped of penalty rates.

This was a callous decision by the Kennett Government that would affect the lives of these employees and future staff for the next two decades.

Thankfully, after an extremely lengthy argument and challenging negotiations, penalty rates for casual employees have been restored at these Arts Institutions.

There is strength in numbers.

This is why it is so important to be a member of your union as a similar result may not have been achieved at these Arts Institutions or similar workplaces.
JOINING THE RANKS ACROSS STATE GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENTS THIS YEAR WILL BE A FLEET OF FRESH FACES WITH THE CREATION OF A NEW CADETSHIP PROGRAM THAT ENCOURAGES ONGOING EMPLOYMENT AND SKILL DEVELOPMENT FOR DISADVANTAGED YOUTH.

A first of its kind under our Victorian Public Service Agreement, the program will provide an alternative pathway into public sector employment for disadvantaged young people.

CPSU has been actively involved in developing the initiative in collaboration with DEDJTR as the program partner.

CPSU joined the unveiling of the Jobs Victoria Youth Cadetship Program for the Victorian Public Service which was launched by the Minister for Training and Skills, Gayle Tierney.

Understanding the need to make our VPS roles more accessible to young people who have not attained a university qualification, cadets will be employed directly by the Government in the Victorian Public Service (VPS) as a Grade 1 earning a real wage, and will be covered by all our conditions.

Cadets will also be given the opportunity to undertake a Certificate 4 in Government – a nationally-recognised qualification delivered by a TAFE provider - which will foster the skills necessary for a career in the VPS.

Arguably the most admirable aspect of the program is its supportive approach that champions ongoing employment of young people in the public sector, rather than waving goodbye to cadets once they’ve finished their allotted time in a role.

The pool of cadets will be considered for ongoing Grade 2 positions in the VPS ahead of any external advertising.

Making government an accessible and inclusive employer sets a positive example for other employers, demonstrating the importance of giving Victoria’s young people a go.

The program, which has been two years in the making, is a great example of what can be achieved when the government and a union work positively and collaboratively.

As part of the partnership, CPSU employed Hana Dalton to support the project as Cadetship Liaison Officer.

The first intake of cadets will begin in the first half of 2017 and CPSU looks forward to seeing their successes throughout the year.

WHILE DEBATE CONTINUES AFTER THE SOUTH AUSTRALIAN BLACKOUT LAST YEAR OVER RENEWABLES AND THE TRUE COST OF BROWN COAL GENERATED ELECTRICITY, THE CAUSE BEHIND INCREASING ENERGY COSTS TO VICTORIANS WAS EXPOSED RECENTLY IN SUBMISSIONS TO THE PEOPLE’S INQUIRY INTO PRIVATISATION AND IT HAD NOTHING TO DO WITH AN OVERDUE RE-ADJUSTMENT IN ROYALTIES OR HAZELWOOD’S CLOSURE.

While many reasons are routinely suggested it’s worth also taking a look at the impact of the Kennett Government’s privatisation of the State Electricity Commission (SECV) in 1995 as one cause behind skyrocketing costs.

The inter-related connection of private ownership with higher electricity prices cannot be overlooked.

After WW1, Sir John Monash applied his authority to providing Victoria with a unified system of power generation and distribution in the form of the State Electricity Commission (SECV).

The State Owned SECV effectively made Victoria independent of NSW black coal when there were several sizeable existing power schemes mostly private companies enjoying a monopoly on a sort of build-own-operate-transfer basis.

Voltages and frequencies differed and some schemes used direct current but Monash’s major problem was political.
The original plan in the 1920’s implied the SECV would just take over vacant territory and supply existing schemes in bulk however Monash opposed this and saw no point in providing cheaper power so that middlemen could increase their profits.

Monash applied his skills and long experience of interacting with politicians, and status as a war hero, to largely achieve his vision for Victorians of a unified system of power generation and distribution offering large economies of scale.

State politicians of the era were bemused and in some cases permanently aggrieved by their inability to make him toe their line.

70 years later the snake oil salespeople returned and claimed that the private sector was inherently more efficient and that the people of Victoria would benefit from the competition after the break up and sale of the SECV.

In the year before privatisation, the SECV paid $995 million in interest, a $191 million dividend to the State Government, and had a profit of $207 million.

Victoria and South Australia have sold all their electricity businesses, while only some have been sold in Queensland and NSW.

The generators have been sold in NSW and the retail businesses have been sold in Queensland and NSW. Everywhere else in Australia, they are still state-owned assets.

Our electricity prices are the result of complex regulatory processes. The electricity price we pay includes charges for generation, transmission, distribution and retail services.

Australian Energy Market Operator (AEMO) determines generation charges while Australian Energy Regulator (AER) sets the transmission and distribution charges.

Retailers set the retail component in NSW, Victoria and SA, while elsewhere government regulators do.

Charges for transmission “poles and wires” form the largest component of our electricity price, so any price increases here will noticeably impact on our electricity bills and this is what we have experienced.

The largest part of these regulated network charges is the company’s rate of return and AER decides this rate, taking into account things such as proposed investment.

In order to fully exploit the investment, the networks inflated yields, and hence maximise profits.

Network businesses have sought to expand their ‘poles and wires’ asset base and over-hyped future demand from the grid, in order to be granted expansion approval by AER.

$75 billion has been spent on network improvements and expansion in the past 10 years and this extraordinary expense just passed on to consumers to meet demand forecasts that never eventuated.

Because network revenue is guaranteed by the regulator, consumers must pay for this new capacity whether it’s used or not. The majority of Victoria’s electricity network assets are now owned by the Singapore and Chinese Government.

One of the major reasons that overseas governments claim to be buying into our assets is the higher rates of return.

They demand two per cent return on assets or less from their own electricity assets at home while they’re receiving 8-10 per cent return on ours.

Victorian electricity consumers are now providing this return.

Victorians are effectively subsidising the cheaper cost of electricity to overseas domestic consumers.

Unfortunately, the people who were meant to benefit from the establishment of the SEC - Victorians - are now the ones paying the highest for it.

The immediate sugar hit from the sale price achieved is gone.

Prices and customer complaints have gone up, reliability has gone down, massive job losses particularly in regional areas have devastated communities, profits generated go off-shore instead of back to Victorians and John Monash would be turning in his grave.
WHAT’S BEHIND YOUTH JUSTICE RIOTS

MANY OF THE PROBLEMS THE SYSTEM NOW FACES HAVE BEEN SIX YEARS IN THE MAKING AS STAFFING AND FACILITIES DETERIORATED AND GOVERNMENT AND REGULATORS IGNORED BUILDING TENSIONS AS OFFENDER PROFILES HARDENED.

A damning Ombudsman report describing conditions at Parkville as “disgraceful” and outlining many health and safety concerns was sat on by the incoming Baillieu Government.

The Baillieu-Napthine era stripped resources and made 6,000 public servants redundant including 1,000 at DHHS.

The Department was instructed not to fill fixed-term positions, or vacancies.

It became the era of outsourced human service delivery and labour hire. A new head of Secure Services was engaged from Victoria Police and a former NGO head took up the Children’s Commissioner role.

Occupational Violence was ignored as staff were told to just toughen up and consequence for action remained wishful thinking.

Pizzas, ice-cream and coke under the guise of a therapeutic model became widespread bribes to maintain order.

Experienced staff were forced out, many on spurious misconduct claims, one even being terminated after having a shiv held to his throat during a break-out because he opened a cell door to provide toilet paper.

Incident categories were even recalibrated to hide the violence and the management regime went full throttle with public affairs and stunts to distract outside onlookers convincing even many experienced journalists that all was rosy behind the wall.

The Children’s Commissioner at the time even exclaimed the Coalition Minister Mary Wooldridge as ‘a bloody ripper’ Minister.

The Government changed in 2014 and the Department commissioned further reports as questions arose after violence towards staff escalated.

The facilities were filling up as the drug ‘ICE’ swept the suburbs and adult crime syndicates ‘ran the boys’ leaving more and more remand offenders housed in cramped conditions for far too long.

Assaults on staff continued, damaged property repaired, but budget submissions remained unsuccessful even after youth offenders took their protests to the Parkville rooftops.

Then in early November last year offenders at Parkville caused more than $2 million worth of damage.

Rioters trashed their accommodation, smashed ceiling tiles and air conditioning units, broke CCTV equipment and left half the facility uninhabitable and without 60 beds overnight.

Youth offenders had to be promptly relocated offsite and many went to Malmsbury compounding safety issues there. Others were sent temporarily to Police lock-ups like Mill Park, prior to the decision to utilise beds at the former young offenders Grevillea unit at Barwon prison.
Impact on Staff

While it’s only a small cohort igniting unacceptable behaviour inside our youth justice centres, the impacts have been immense and challenging for everyone, including CPSU members.

Youth Justice members have been at the forefront of these riots, and unfortunately, many have become victims of serious attacks and threats in a place where they have a right to feel safe.

CPSU asserts that there is no hierarchy of human rights and the human rights of our members is equally a consideration in the choices being made by government about accommodation for youth offenders.

Debate around the suitability of relocating youth offenders to the detached Grevillea Unit is ongoing but the union has supported this approach by the Government because the need was immediate and it offers safety and security for both our members and the majority of young offenders who do not want to be part of the violent disruption.

Assertions that youth offenders had been sent to ‘adult prison’ are wildly misleading.

The reality is that Grevillea is a separated unit, with a separate entrance, visiting rooms, outdoor areas and accommodation.

Young offenders have no contact with adult prisoners.

It has a wall and razor wire just like the secure areas at Parkville and Malmsbury.

Questions still remain about why Grevillea opponents would have preferred young offenders be left in the uninhabitable Parkville facility, or Malmsbury, where they outnumber available beds, rather than moved somewhere safe, clean and intact.

The impact of these riots and other violent behaviours have on our members is serious, as they face the risk of communicable disease as for example after being spat at inside their mouths.

Some female members have been held down and threatened with rape, and many members are the victims of horrific physical assaults.

What’s worse is the actions of offenders are rarely subject to consequence, so there is nothing deterring these heinous acts.

It’s going to take a strong and collaborative effort to solve these incredibly complex problems.

NOT EQUAL AT WORK

IT TOOK THE DEATHS OF MORE THAN 400 PUBLIC SERVICE HEALTHCARE WORKERS IN WEST AFRICA DURING THE EBOLA CRISIS FOR THEIR GOVERNMENT TO FINALLY SUPPLY LIFE-SAVING PROTECTIVE GEAR FOR ITS WORKFORCE.

Stories like this highlight the plight many public employees face when not afforded the same rights as private sector counterparts at work, including the right to a healthy and safe work environment, the right to organise, and the right to collectively bargain.

Similar shocking stories about deplorable treatment of public employees from across the globe were shared at a summit recently in an effort to ensure the rights of public employees are never undermined.

At the conference, Public Services International affiliates highlighted a global trend of governments treating their workforces’ as second class citizens, and shifting to privatised models of service delivery.

PSI shares campaign strategies to inform affiliates about the global trend to privatisate, outsource, or use alternative funding models that undermine service quality and divert scarce public revenue to privateers.

PSI investigates these multination corporations taking over the delivery of public services, with many believed to be paying minimal or no tax.

CPSU has been a longstanding affiliate and attended the conference to hear other union experiences about their governments’ as an employer.

Stories were shared about European governments who are mandated to outsource or privatisate services to multinational companies in order to have countries bailed out economically.

For those who work in the service of the public they have the choice of losing their job or taking a significant cut in pay and entitlements, and in examples such as Greece, to have their pensions frozen or cut.

The stories were as confronting as the figures are shocking in West Africa with one in four health workers required to work for free; with 93 of 100 having no access to social services; and 89 of 100 having never been vaccinated for any disease or illness they may be exposed to in their job.

The conference explored other impacts on public service delivery including bonded labour and the global shortage of trained staff for a range of service functions due to poor government funding leading to many workers taking up roles for no pay in an attempt to eventually get a chance for paid work.

Precarious employment of this nature is rife and is a focus for PSI affiliates.

Other concerns relate to corrupted government procurement process.

The lack of any oversight of decision making allowed these corrupt practices to fester, coupled with frequent movement of certain personnel between public sector employment and the private companies bidding for the work.

Decisions then fail to take into account the democratic and national interests of the citizens as a whole.

Rather the financial interests of the multinational companies and those who financially benefit from the contract are the priority.

Australian unions showcased the Peoples Inquiry into Privatisation as our strategy for reframing the anti privatisation debate.

CPSU looks forward to continuing our work with PSI and other unions across the globe to ensure the rights and entitlements of our members are protected and advanced.
IT’S AN APPROPRIATE TIME, FOLLOWING THE CENTRELINK DEBT RECOVERY DISASTER HITTING OUR POOREST PENSIONERS, WITH REPORTS SURFACING THAT FEDERAL POLITICIANS CLAIMED TRAVEL ALLOWANCES TO BUY INVESTOR PROPERTIES, ATTEND SPORTING EVENTS, FAMILY RE-UNION HOLIDAY’S, EVEN THE PORTSEA POLO ON THE TAXPAYER, TO FIND WHO ISN’T PAYING THEIR WAY.

New tax office figures reveal that 36 per cent or 679 large firms paid no tax on their earnings.

This includes 109 companies that paid no tax, despite reporting more than $1billion in total income.

Resources and energy had the greatest proportion of firms that did not pay any tax, at just under 60 per cent, while almost 40 per cent of manufacturers also paid nothing.

Financial firms, retailers and other companies in the services sector were much more likely to have paid up, with less than 30 per cent having a zero tax bill in 2014-15 with that trend continuing in 2015-16 financial year.

IBM paid no tax despite recording $3.6bn in total income of which $49.3m was taxable income.

Google, Yahoo!, Microsoft and Samsung reduced their tax bills by a combined $5.4 billion in 2013 and 2014 with the average rate of tax paid being 16 cents in the dollar or about half the income tax rate paid by an average worker in Australia.

The main tax avoidance techniques are debt-loading, also known as the capitalisation, where Australian subsidiaries are hit with massive interest bills by offshore divisions of the same company as a way of artificially-lowering taxable earnings here, and profit alienation.

Profit alienation is where Australian divisions are forced to pay large intellectual property fees to divisions based in tax havens and low-tax jurisdictions.

Personal income taxation made up around 47 percent of all tax received by the Federal Government while the GST makes up around 14.4 percent of federal taxation receipts.

DURING THE YEAR THE UNION CONTINUED TO REPRESENT OUR MEMBERS IN BOTH AN INDIVIDUAL CAPACITY, COLLECTIVELY, AND IN POLICY DEVELOPMENT FORUMS.

The union made submissions to a number of the Victorian Government’s commissions of Inquiry including Fiskville, Fire Services Review, Ministerial Advisory Committee review into EPA, Bracks’ School Funding review to name but a few.

Members were actively involved in the development of the submissions and in some cases presented to the Committees these submissions.

Union Officials and staff have been involved in a range of Government initiated social policy Committees and Taskforces such as the Premier’s Ice Taskforce, NDIS Implementation Taskforce, Road Map to Reform for Policy for Children and Young Persons, Public Sector OHS Leadership Round Table.

Significant work was commenced during the year to improve Departmental responses to OHS issues such as bullying, occupational violence, inappropriate procurement and broader risk mitigation strategies.

The union was involved in extensive enterprise bargaining during the year with the Victorian Public Service negotiations for a new EBA. Negotiations also occurred in 20 other agencies including three (3) private employers.

The union recruited 1,871 new members (2015: 1,591).

CPSU received 275 notifications of change (2015: 308) and ran 549 cases (2015: 708) on behalf of members. There were 946 “enquiry” cases that dealt with matters over the telephone.

A small operating loss of $7,088 was recorded with member subscriptions up & industrial services expanded. CPSU continues to consolidate our financial position for the future with net member funds at $2,514,918.
